DESCRIPTION OF LEVELS

Examples of work and descriptions are meant to progress through the levels. For example, an employee at level V may also perform work listed within the previous levels.

Note: Factors that may distinguish between entry and journey levels include the degree of independence in performing the work and the complexity of the work and may include the years of related experience, education, and certifications. Employees at the journey levels may independently perform the full range of work listed in the examples above or may assist others in that work.

CONTRACT SPECIALIST I: Performs routine (journey-level) contract management work. Works under moderate supervision, with limited latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may rely on direction from others to solve problems that are not standard. Employees may also assist other staff in performing work of greater complexity.

CONTRACT SPECIALIST II: Performs complex (journey-level) contract management work. Works under general supervision, with moderate latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may work more independently than those at the previous level and may routinely assist other staff in performing work of greater complexity. Employees at this level may facilitate procurement-related events such as kick-off and pre-proposal meetings, post-award conferences, team briefings, and evaluation scorings.

Note: A senior-level employee (levels III-V) may serve in a lead or supervisory role. Senior-level employees may perform the full range of work identified within levels preceding their own and/or may coordinate, evaluate, or oversee that work for others. Factors that may distinguish between senior levels include the scope of responsibility and oversight, the size and complexity of contracts, and the employee's related experience, education, and certifications. Senior-level employees may work with the largest and/or most complex contracts and may perform contract negotiations of high complexity.

CONTRACT SPECIALIST III: Performs highly complex (senior-level) contract management work. Works under limited supervision, with considerable latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may:

- Coordinate the risk assessment process for contract monitoring and planning.
- Coordinate and facilitate some of the more complex procurement-related meetings such as kick-off and pre-proposal meetings, post-award conferences, team briefings, and evaluation scorings.
- Conduct needs assessments to determine requirements for the purchase of goods or services.
- Negotiate contracts, contract renewals, and amendments.
- Monitor legal and regulatory requirements pertaining to contracting.
- Develop bid evaluation scoring instruments.
- Recommend updates for solicitations, contract boilerplate language, and other contract-related documents.
- Advise internal and external stakeholders on contract administration, policies, and procedures.
- Provide input regarding the cancellation of contracts when deviations occur.
- Prepare specifications for requests for bids.
- Resolve audit exceptions by defining causes of errors and recommending appropriate dispositions

CONTRACT SPECIALIST IV: Performs advanced (senior-level) contract management work. Works under minimal supervision, with considerable latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may fully perform highly complex contract development/management work and may:

- Identify training needs and conduct training.
- Develop solicitations, contracts, and amendments by identifying provider resources, describing services to be rendered, evaluating information supplied by bidders, and negotiating contract specifications.
- Perform quality control reviews to ensure compliance with legal and regulatory requirements.

CONTRACT SPECIALIST V: Performs highly advanced (senior-level) contract management work. Works under minimal supervision, with extensive latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may be considered technical experts in the field and may be responsible for overseeing and performing work on some of the most complex contracts. Employees at this level may:

- Manage procurement-related events such as kick-off and pre-proposal meetings, post-award conferences, team briefings, and evaluation scorings.
- Develop contract administration policies and procedures.
