DESCRIPTION OF LEVELS

Examples of work and descriptions are meant to progress through the levels. For example, an employee at a level V may also perform work listed within the previous levels.

Note: Factors that may distinguish between the levels include the degree of independence in performing the work, the complexity of the work, and the scope of responsibility. Other factors may include the type and level of security of the facility, the assigned population, and the assigned caseload and related offenses.

PAROLE OFFICER I: Performs entry-level parole administration work. Works under close supervision, with minimal latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may have limited or no experience and spend the majority of their time performing simple to routine work following standard procedures.

PAROLE OFFICER II: Performs routine (journey-level) parole administration work. Works under moderate supervision, with limited latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may rely on direction from others to solve problems that are not standard; and may assist other staff performing job duties of greater complexity.

Note: A senior-level employee (levels III-V) may serve in a lead or supervisory role; however, typically, supervisory responsibilities within this job classification series will be found at the IV or V level. Senior-level employees may perform the full range of work listed within the examples of work performed section, and/or may oversee or coordinate that work for others. Factors that may distinguish between senior levels include the scope of responsibility, oversight, and authority; the complexity of the work performed; the assigned population; and the assigned caseload and related level of confidentiality and complexity.

PAROLE OFFICER III: Performs highly complex (senior-level) parole administration and supervision work involving reviewing and approving parole management activities, parole investigations, and parole release plans and reports; coordinating case assignments; and conducting case analyses. Works under general supervision, with moderate latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may:

- Plan, schedule, and supervise parole administration activities; and coordinate with other units, departments, and entities.
- Review and evaluate parole documentation and recommendations.
- Provide technical guidance to staff.

PAROLE OFFICER IV: Performs advanced (senior-level) parole administration and supervision work. Works under limited supervision, with considerable latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment. Employees at this level may:

- Ensure that parole administration activities are in compliance with agency policies, procedures, standards, and objectives.
- Direct staff in developing new sources of information and in improving casework and administrative hearings techniques.
- Develop and implement policies and procedures.

- Coordinate or conduct parole investigations of highly confidential matters; and direct actions to be taken on specific parole cases and hearings.
- Prepare training and operational manuals, educational materials, and informational programs.
- Review workload statistics, caseload assignments, and case reports.

PAROLE OFFICER V: Performs highly advanced (senior-level) parole administration and supervision work. Works under minimal supervision, with extensive latitude for the use of initiative and independent judgment.

GENERAL QUALIFICATION GUIDELINES

EXPERIENCE AND EDUCATION

Experience in parole administration work. Graduation from an accredited four-year college or university with major coursework in criminal justice, psychology, sociology, or a related field is generally preferred. Experience and education may be substituted for one another.
